

ADVENTURES IN MARRIAGE

As we're approaching the last part of the month, our study on Living God's Mission is nearing its end. We've spent a good bit of time thinking about our calling to go out to minister to the world around us. We've got a good opportunity coming up to reach those outside the Lord's church. Right now, we have more couples registered to attend from outside the church than inside the church.

March 7th, 8th and 29th we will be hosting a marriage seminar called Adventures in Marriage (AIM). This event is free to attend, includes meals and offers free child care. It is open to the community, so make plans to attend and invite another couple to join you.

AIM is a skills-based program that works with all married couples in order to teach very practical communication, conflict resolution, prioritizing needs, expressing anger and fighting fair. This seminar is not a spectator event, it's a participation event.

For those who choose to attend, you will absolutely gain tools that you did not have before and learn skills that can improve the way you connect with your spouse. This isn't a troubled marriages event. This is a marriage improvement event. If you're married and have an interest in making your relationship stronger, this class will work. Heidi and I have been through this class as students, and we use these skills regularly.

This isn't a one-sided conversation about marriage. This is hands on, real talk, tough issues, looking your spouse in the eyes and building something together that you can use.

We need everyone to please register ahead of time with the QR code so that we can make food and child care arrangements.

Friday, March 7, 5:30-9:00 pm

Saturday, March 8, 9:00 am -3:30 pm

Saturday, March 29, 9:00 am- Noon

See you there!

Nick
